

Sea Change at Work?

8 Awesome Skills to Keep Your Boat Afloat

How to cruise through change and enjoy the voyage.

High stakes navigation skills for sea changes at work

Captain your career and still be part of the crew.

How to plot a course so you don't get lost at sea.

1

Find Your Sea Legs

Think on your feet. (No flippers allowed here!)

Don't be afraid to navigate out-of-your-depth.

2

Learn to Swim. Staying Afloat is Key

Get things done with limited resources

Know when to ask for help vs. D.I.Y

3

Pilot Through Problems

Become part of the situation (not the problem). Find a solution.

Come up with new ideas and take them to the helm.

4

Heave Ho! Hoist That Mast!

Become scrappy, frugal and resourceful

Find ways to be indispensable to your crew and captain.

5

Navigate Rough Seas

Stay tuned to the social and political waves your sailing through.

Know the difference between positive change and negative intentions. Beware of mutiny!

6

Watch the Winds of Change

See around corners

Read workplace dynamics

Tack and pivot before you hit the reef.

Reinvent in front of the curve

7

Creative Crewing

Skillful negotiator, communicator, compromiser, and collaborator

Capably know how to close a deal

8

Aloha! You've Arrived

Measure, track, and report progress

Get things done -- less budget, more resourceful

Leverage your creativity and determination during your journey

